We note another extensive credit sale of dry goods, etc., at auction during this week, at which generally low prices have ruled. This is the eighth or ninth sale of this character since the beginning of the year, and considering the dull condition of trade and trusiness generally, it is somewhat of a mystery to account for the working off of such quantities of merchandisc under the hammer. The reflection arises that there must he "a shutting up and a shutting down" to come at some

REPORT OF BRIG TANNER, GUNN, MASTER .- Left Hum bolds Bay Jan 24th at 6 PM. Creasing the bar in the dark the vessel struck eight of nine times, but no damage was done. Next night at 10 o'clock had a very heavy gale from SE, which carried away the foresails and split the mainsails to pieces. Layed to with topsails until the 25th, and then had moderate weather with heavy sea and rain. Next afternoon wind hauled around to 88W with heavy sea and thick heavy rain; had cales and fine weather on the 20th. Made Mani at 9 a w on the 2hl, arriving in Honolulu next day.

REPORT OF SCHOOMER KAMADLE, L. B. PETERSON, MAS-TER.-Left Honolulu April 12th, 1873, for a whaling cruise. Cruised around the south of Hawaii for three weeks without seeing whales, then left for the coast of Lower California. Arrived at Magdalena Bay June Sth, having seen no whales. Worked down the coast of Mexico and Central America. Between August and October, took 340 bbls humpback oil. Arrived at Panama Nov 3d; landed oil for shipmenty refitted vessel, and sailed to the southward Nov 21st. Saw sperm whales the first time on the voyage, on the 29th off Gorgona, and took two small ones. Arrived at Galapages on the 1st January, 1874. Cruised about two weeks without seeing whates. Cruised along in lat 1° 8 to long 110° W; saw whates three times and took two. Made Hawaii Feb 3d. From the equator to Hawaii have had light variable winds and calms, and no steady NE trades. Arrived at Honolulu Feb 27th with 60 bbls sperm oil.

REPORT OF SCHOONER MARY FORTER, J. C. CLUNEY, Master, Sailed from Honolulu Oct 23d, 1873,, with light trade winds which continued with light buffling winds to the equator. Crossed the equator in long 165° W with fresh SE trades the first 43 hours. From the lat of 9° 8, long 165° W up to the lat of 31° S, long 165° E, had a continuation of jight haffling winds and calms. Crossed the Meridian in lat 27 0 S. The last three days had a fresh gale from SE. Sighted Sydney heads Dec 4th, arriving on the morning of next day. Returning lest Sydney Dec 17th with a fresh gale from the S the first 24 hours; wind then hauled to the N with a heavy gale which lasted three days. Experienced fresh easterly winds for nine days, which hauled to the N with a heavy typhoon,-the worse weather ever experienced. Crossed the Meridian in lat 29 0 S. From the Meridian to the equator had no SE trades but a continual NE wind and calms. Made fast to the buoy at Starbuck Island on the evening of Feb 6th; found them all well on the Island. Repaired rigging and sailed on the 7th, with fresh NE winds. Crossed the equator on the 10th in long 158° W; then took fresh NE trades well to the enacwrrd; then light northerly winds and calms until sighting Onlin on the 25th. Arrived in Honolulu Feb 27th. after a passage of 72 days from Sydney.

—The standing rigging parted first out from Sydney, which caused me to work under short sail the remainder of the ### BIRTH.

In this city, February 21st, to the wife of Captain E. D. Crane, a son.

A DETERMINED SUICIDE.-Last Thursday morning a native fisherman discovered the body of a white man floating in the harbor. It was brought on shore at the steamboat wharf, and was found to be the body of a man named Frederick Sorenson, who came a passenger by the bark D. C. Murray on the 9th inst. from San Francisco. He was quite ill on was about to "step across into Eternity." When deal. found, the feet and hands were tied together, an evidence of a determination not to escape death. The deceased has a brother in Portland, Oregon. "One more unfortunate, Rashly importunate."

THE PACIFIC

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 28.

THE CONSENCEMENT of a new reign and the accession to office of a new Ministry, like the establishment of a new firm in business, becomes a fruitful subject for speculation, and general attenton is directed to the executive departments of Government in expectation and hope to see something accomplished or at least attempted, for the general good. Some there are, undoubtedly, who take a sombre view as to the possibilities of our future, and think they can see in the recent changes no real ground for anticipating a turn in the tide of affairs that has so long been running at ebb with the country generally. These may with propriety be termed the croakers, and with some of this class, unfortunately, the wish is father to the thought. Others again, run to the opposite extreme and are sanguine that now, with men of enterprise, energy and firmness at the head of affairs, we may certainly and speedily look for great and beneficial changes in-well, about everything, down to even the price of living.

While adopting neither of these opposite extremes, we believe there are reasonable grounds for expecting at the hands of the present Ministry, not only a definite, declared and settled policy, on general principles, but the inception of some measures of enterprise and activity, that shall be in marked contrast with the dawdling, red-tape style to which the country has for years been accustomed, and under which everybody and everything has, metaphorically speaking, gone to seed. Truly, the men who have just taken their seats in the Cabinet of our young and newly elected King, have presented to their hands a noble opportunity to distinguish their own names, and by able statesmanship raise Hawaii from the slough of despond into which, through the errors and the mismanagement of the past, she has been gradually declining, and to lift her, step by step, to the post of honorable prosperity and thrift to which her position and resources unquestionable entitle her. The task it will be acknowledged is a severe one, and its attempted performance implies wisdom and skill to devise, tact to propose, and untiring industry and fertility of resources to carry out. Important measures must be planned and carefully weighed, and the arguments for and against thoroughly scanned, in order to meet the objections of critics, who we all know by experience, are more plentiful than fair in our small community. Let us venture generously in advance to credit the the new Ministry with the possession of all the peculiar and varied qualifications thus indicated as necessary in the discharge of their duties so as to meet the requirements of the situation and the just expectations of the country So Long as the Government continues to own the types and presses with which the Gazette is printed, so long probably will that journal continue to be a quasi government organ. The attempt has been made quite frequently both by the late administration and by the Gazette itself, to shake off that character, which by the nature of things seems to adhere to it, and the charge was even made editorially in an amusing fit of illhumor, that the ADVERTISER was the "official" organ of the Government. That was however so far-fetched an idea that it was not even recognized as a joke. A leading article in this week's issue of the Gazette, under the prominent and suggestive heading "Policy of the Administration." has attracted attention, the more particularly from the semi-efficial style which the writer assumes so that, while the editor of that "independent journal" is undoubtedly responsible for the artiele, its tone and manner authorize us to accept it as agreeing with the views of the new Cabinet, if not inspired from that source. And indeed, no particular barm would result were the word official" affixed to the article in question, so far as the administration would be thereby committed to any really definite line of policy. It may be characterized as a not very artistically executed but diffusely worded specimen of non-committal talk; and as such we will briefly review it, premising that we find nothing in it to seriously

At the outset, we are led to expect a revelation, which however we read on to the end of the column without finding; although it is quite true, as stated, that "the public, both native and foreign, will be anxious to learn, first, whether the Cabinet have any settled policy; and next, what that policy is to be." The first intimation of ministerial " policy" is in regard to the rioters of the 12th inst., and we are assured that it is considered best that the law in their cases should take its course. We should certainly feel alarm for possible consequences were the idea seriously entertained "of an immediate exercise of Royal clemency" for these men, misguided though they were; and the declaration of intention to adhere to the principle set forth in the somewhat hackneved "Fiat justitia," &c. is satisfactory. What follows immediately after this quotation is very fair reading; though the thoughts will not strike one as new, including the quotation from Shakspare who, it is sad to think, died without ever knowing anything about these Islands. But in this pangraph occurs the only allusion, and a very slight one at that, which the quasi government organ digns to make to the subject of the recent appointments to the Bench of the Supreme Court. "The Constitution (with a large C) of the Bench" of the highest tribunal of the land certainly deserves more consideration than can be bestowed in three lines of stilted "fine writing." The once much vexed susject of Pearl Harbor is deemed worthy of a paragraph of five lines, in which trembling patriots are reassured by the announcement that the present Cabinet are as one man agreed that "no cession of territory- will ever be proposed by them on any ground or pretence whatever." We breathe freer-but after all, why attempt to resuscitate a self-evidently "dead duck "?

The subject of a Reciprocity Treaty with the United States, in fruitless endeavors to obtain which it is said we have wasted much time, is treated philosophically, and we are given the very sound advice to " in the future attend to the development of our productions and our commerce on a self-reliant and independent basis." But one cannot fail to admire the facility with which this writer passes from grave to gay, for the concluding portion of the paragraph of which the foregoing is a part, speaks of the next overtures for a treaty of reciprocity coming from America, anxious to make us a present of half a million per annum-which of course is intended as a sidesplitting joke. And is not reciprocity also "a dead duck "? "Well-considered and rigorous sanitary meashis arrival, being far gone with consumption. Sev- ures for the whole group," will be brought foreral days ago, a letter from the deceased was left | ward in the next Legislature. We heartily conwith Mr. Sorenson, of the firm of Tibbitts & Soren- cur in the desirableness of such measures, but son, (who is only a namesake and no relative of the suggest that there is a possibility of our attemptdrowned man) in which the intention is plainly ex- ing too much and so failing almost wholly; espepressed to commit suicide, on account of being tired | cially in view of the style and probable tone of of a painful life. The expression used was that he the Assembly with which Ministers will have to

The next paragraph, though awkwardly constructed and consequently somewhat involved, amounts to this: The business community may rest assured, from the fact that one of the promi-

of the Chamber of Commerce, that measures of commercial, fiscal and financial policy will neither be neglected by the government nor be in opposition to the views of business men. This promises some definite action in the not very distant future, and is so far encouraging. But by far the most singular portion of this exposition of the "Policy of the Administration" is the twenty lines devoted to the "all-important subject of religion;" and here the writer, having evidently gone a-fishing in strange waters and got beyond his depth, flounders painfully. Those readers who happen to be believers in "the great religion of Christianity," are comforted with the assurance that they actually have the sympathy of the Administration, which is quite willing to admit that, take it all together, Christianity seems to adapt itself to all climes and to all races, and to commend itself equally to the intelect of the philosopher and to the untutored mind of the peasant." This, and much more of mere waddle, coupled with the extremely needless intimation that the Ministers have no intention of interfering with freedom of conscience or, what is quite as entirely out of the question, of diverting government funds to sectarian purposes,-had all been much better left unsaid. It incurs the risk of giving offense to some, -be deemed an attempt to patronize religion while at the same time holding it in ill-disguised contempt-and this from a professed Christian editor! And here we conclude our review, seriatim, of all the Gazette's points of "Policy of the Administration;" the short paragraph at the end being merely a poetical flourish and a somewhat pretty allusion to the approaching millennium, the principal promoters of which appear to be "Ministers of State, Ministers of the Gospel, and last, though not least, the Press." And so ends the Gazette's first Essay on Ministerial policy. Succeeding chapters will be looked for with some

Official Correspondence.

The Gazette of this week contains nearly two columns of correspondence from the Foreign Office, which, as it is of quite a formal character, we will summarize. Under date of the 12th, the then incumbent of that office writes to the Representatives of the United States and Great Brituin, informing them that "a riotous mob have unexpectedly made a violent attack upon the Court House and the members of the Legislature," and that the government "have not the force at hand to resist," and requesting aid at the earliest moment possible from the ships of those nationalities, to assist "the police in quelling the riot and temporarily protecting life and property." On the same day the Minister writes to the Commissioner of France, informing him of the election of the King, of the attack by the mob on the Court House, and of the call for aid upon the ships of war, and it is added that "had there been a French ship of war in port, M. Ballieu would also have been requested to join in affording the author ities temporary aid." Under the same date, M. Ballieu in acknowledging receipt of the Minister's dispatch, says-" You may rest assured that I would have given to the French forces similar instructions to those transmitted by Mr. Peirce and Mr. Wodehouse, and that the good feelings of the country which I represent will never be wanting in matters involving the security of the Hawaiian nation and of the inhabitants of these islands." On the 19th, His Ex. W. L. Green, (who on the previous day had assumed the duties of the Foreign Office) informs the American and British Commissioners " that such arrangements have now been made for the preservation of order in this city as will allow of the withdrawal of the forces which were landed from" the U. S. S. Portsmouth and Tuscarora and H. B. M.'s S. Tenedos, " which have rendered such invaluable services to His Majesty's government." To this, appropriate replies were required from the respective Commissioners, informing that the forces would reambask on the 20th. On the 21st the Minister informs the French Commissioner that the occasion for the presence of the foreign troops having passed away, they had returned to their respective ships; and on the same date the Minister, by command of the King, thanks the American and British Commissioners in His Majesty's name, and in that of His government, and through the Commissioners, Commanders Belknap and Skerrett of the Tuscarora and Portsmouth, and Captain Ray of the Tenedos, " for the prompt and efficient aid rendered to the local authorities in suppressing the riot in this city on the 12th inst. The events of the 12th inst., unfortunate as they may have been, served to exhibit the feelings of friendship which exist between the countries, and the certainty with which this government may rely in cases of emergency upon the cordial and disinterested co-operation of the Representatives and ships of the United States, as well as those of Her Britannic Majesty." The reply of the British Commissioner is dated on the 22d, and that of the American Commissioner on the 23d. Major Wodehouse says: "I beg that you will, in my name and in that of Captain Ray of Her Majesty's ship 'Tenedos,' express to His Majesty, and His Majesty's Government, our thanks for their kind recognition of the services which we were enabled to perform on the occasion of the riot of the 12th of February. It is hardly necessary for me to give the assurance 'that in any case of emergency, His Majesty's Government may rely upon the cordial and disinterested co-operation of Her Britannic Majesty's ships of war.' " In the reply of Mr. Peirce the following language is used: "The purport of said note was communicated immediately to the gallant U. S. Naval Officers named. In their behalf, and by their request, I now tender to His Majesty and the Hawaiian Government, our joint and grateful acknowledgments and sincere thanks for the expressions of your generous appreciation of the services rendered as referred to, and, presented in your note, in words gratifying to a naval officer's sense of professional pride and honorable to the service of which they are members. In reply to your allusion, in regard to the friendship that subsists between the United States and this Kingdom, permit me to remark that that friendship has existed uninterruptedly for three quarters of a century past, with what benefit to this nation the recording angel and human annals will show. May the future intercourse of the two peoples be as happy and as glorious as the past.' (Translated from "Hawaii Ponoi," Feb. 25th.) THE Hawaiian people ought to learn some lessons from the disturbance and riot that happened in Honolulu the other day. The people who think seriously will learn that there are among us many who man, with a very large collection of the latest and morniusdo not think seriously, and who are easily deceived ble medical prescriptions. By W. W. HALL, A. M., D. and excited to mischief by bad men. The shameful Editor of Hall's Journal of Health, etc. destruction of property that took place and the attack on the members of the Assembly, shows how very important it is that good citizens should make it known that they will stand firm together to uphold the laws and to put down violence. The mob, as we now find out, were excited by the lying words of certain leaders, who told them if Kalakaua became King the taxes would be increased, and if Emma became Sovereign, the taxes would be reduced. The ignorant mob seemed not to know or think that no king can increase or decrease taxes without the consent of the Representatives. Another very important thing they did not perhaps remember, that by their lawless and violent acts they were saying to foreign nations that Hawaii is not able to take care of herself or to maintain an independent government. Any more of such disturbances will perhaps afford to foreign governments an excuse for | Seward's Travels around the World, ceasing to regard our independence,-that independence which we are all so anxious to maintain. So that we see that every lawless act of the mob of February 12th-every destruction of property and every blow at the Representatives—was an insane blow at Hawaiian independence! It is no use to say that they have mobs in America and England-they are able to put them down themselves, and they were ja25

nent members of the Cabinet has been President never known to be obliged to call for the aid of foreign men of war to keep the peace. Therefore let all who love Hawaiian independence take a severe

> Let us show to the world, by our maintaining law and good order in the future, and obeying cheerfully the authority of the government, that we are able to take care of ourselves, and thus secure the permanence of our national independence. Let this thought go forth and be cherished by all true Hawaiians from Hawaii to Niihau.

MR. EDITOR :- A simple reference to the facts in relation to the late Police Court examinations of the several election rioters, must suffice to refute the attack made by your correspondent "Argus" in your last issue. The record of the proceedings and evidence during the fear days' laborious investigation, kept by Mr. H. Macfarlane, shows that of the 74 cases brought before the Court 55 were committed for trial on abundant evidence, and only a few acquitted for insufficient testimony, every one of the latter being discharged at the instance of the prosecuting officer. Not a solitary case was discharged on the sole judgment or responsibility of the Court. FAIR PLAY.

With it pure and mild atmosphere, with its absolute freedom from storms or high winds, with its perous soil which, with all its rich vegetation, retains no dampness and yields no malaria, an with an unvarying temperature—that of the American or Southern European June—ALL THE YEAR ROUND, the dimate of Kona Is one of the healthlest and most inxurious the globe.

The undersigned, at his house at Kaawaloa, a house une qualed in the district for size, cleanliness, commodiousness and thoroughness of furnishing, is prepared to give boarder excellent rooms and all obtainable comforts in the way of diet, at the low rate of $ 5.00 per week. There are fresh water baths on the premises, and fine sea bathing within a short distance. The steamer Kilanea and the schooners Uilama and Prince, run regularly between Honolulu and the Kamanda mining.
